Work on Ouachita River Span to Be Resumed Shortly

Noe and Atkins Make Announcement After Conference With Allen

MEET AT BATON ROUGE
Further Construction To Be Done With Funds From Government

Work on the Ouachita river bridge at Monroe, which was suspended early last winter, will be resumed by July 10, it was authoritatively announced Saturday by State Senator James A. Noe and P. M. Atkins, following a conference held with Governor Oscar K. Allen, held in Baton Rouge Friday.

Resumption of work on the new bridge will be the first construction to be authorized under the new program of the highway department to be carried out with funds made available by an appropriation of $5,828,591 to the state of Louisiana from the federal government's $400,000,000 public works measure. The allotment has been turned over to the state highway department and will be used for completion of the state's road program.

In addition to the work on the bridge, it was announced that contracts for the paving of "route 200," the road connecting Natchitoches street in West Monroe with the Chat-ham road, will be awarded at an early date. This stretch of road will involve about eight miles of paving.

Contracts will also be let for the paving of "route number 11," which is the two-mile stretch approaching the recently completed Sterlington bridge over the Ouachita river.

Other road projects in Ouachita parish, contemplated in the state highway department's program, will be completed with the funds that

HOLDUPS CHARGED TO COLL'S WIDOW

Gray-haired Young Gun-woman Denies Many Robberies In Bronx

NEW YORK, June 24.—(P)—Mrs. Vincent Coll, a gang chief's widow whose hair is streaked with gray though she is only 25, sat between two detectives today and stared with unflinching eye at six merchants who pointed their fingers at her.

"That's the woman," they said. "That's the girl bandit who robbed me."

Her lips curled, but there was a trace of weariness in her voice.

"You've got good memory, haven't you?" she said. "But you're wrong."

Nevertheless the police jailed her and two men as the robbers who created a six-weeks reign of terror among Bronx shopkeepers. Many drugstores and other shops have been robbed by two men led by a gunwoman.

Mrs. Coll was taken with her companions, Thomas Pace and Joseph Ventri, in a raid on a hotel room. As detectives entered, she reached for a vanity bag.

"I want to powder my nose," she said.

A detective seized the bag and found a loaded revolver in it.

Vincent Coll, chief of a Harlem hoodlum gang, was once tried and acquitted for the Harlem "baby killing."

In which gunmen, seeking to wipe out a foe, sprayed a group of children with bullets. One child died and several were wounded.

Not long later, Coll's enemies came on him in a telephone booth. They shattered the booth with machine gun fire, killing him.

Washington Man Found Fatally Shot at Club

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 24.—(P)—J. Donald Cassells, 50 of Washington, was found fatally wounded late today in his suite at the Biltmore Forest Country club.

He died from a heavy caliber pistol wound in his right temple shortly after officials of the club found him lying on the floor of his bedroom.

H. A. MacFayden, manager of the club, said two notes were found in the room, one addressed to Mrs. Cassells and the other to MacFayden.

MacFayden said the note addressed to him requested him to take charge of Cassells' personal property, and to notify his wife and other relatives.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR PARISH-WIDE COTTON MEETINGS

First Session Will Be Held at Courthouse Here Tomorrow Morning

SUCCESS IS FORESEEN

Field Manager Announces Appointments for Northeast Louisiana

Farmers' meetings have been scheduled, committees have been organized in every ward and all plans have been completed for launching the cotton acreage retirement program in Ouachita parish at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. E. R. Strahan, agricultural agent, announced here last night.

The first meeting will be a parish-wide meeting at the courthouse in Monroe. All of the committee members, 47 in number, are expected to be present to be given full instructions on how to conduct the campaign, to receive contract blanks on which pledges may be taken from other farmers, and to begin taking pledges from their respective constituents immediately after the conclusion of the meeting.

But that "dash to Europe" cost the people of the United States many men and $10,000,000. That's too much to pay, even for a few night's lodging in Buckingham palace.

E. E. RICHARDSON BROUGHT TO CITY

Examination Shows School Man Did Not Suffer Fracture of Skull

Fearful that E. E. Richardson, La-Salle parish school superintendent, alleged to have been attacked by Earl Bradford, near Walters Wednesday afternoon, might have been more seriously injured than was at first thought, physicians at the Olla clinic Saturday had Richardson brought to the clinic in Monroe for the purpose of having an X-ray examination made.

The trip from Olla was started about 9:30 a. m. and the injured man had arrived back at the clinic at Olla at 6 p. m.

It was stated here that Richardson apparently had not suffered a fractured skull and that his condition appeared to be favorable. At the Olla clinic it was also stated that his condition appeared to be improved and that he had an excellent chance for recovery.

Bradford is charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with the alleged attack upon Richardson. Sheriff Roy L. Huff of Catahoula parish had indicated that Bradford's bond might be increased or that he might be returned to jail in case the X-ray examination showed a fracture of the skull. John Dale, Jr., district attorney for the parish in which the attack occurred, said he was making an investigation of the case, but that the status of the charge against Bradford would remain unchanged until Richardson's condition had been further determined.

Martin at first refused to come out of his home, witnesses said, but when summoned a second time by Ates, the farm owner walked out. Ates, witnesses said, had dismounted from his horse and was standing just outside the yard with his shotgun resting on the top gate and aimed at Martin. Martin went back into the house and picked up his single-barreled shotgun. He returned and fired. A charge of shot tore Ates' face, causing instant death, Coroner J. F. May said.

Whether Ates attempted to fire his weapon is not known. Mrs. Ira Ates, widow of the victim, testified at the coroner's inquest that neither she nor her husband knew that his shotgun was empty.

Your State Tax Load

Facts are necessary to judge state taxation and expenditures in Louisiana intelligently. That is why readers of The News-STAR and Morning World are following with keen interest the series of articles being published in these newspapers on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays, dealing with state tax matters.

These articles are written by one long experienced in state fiscal affairs. They tell in simple language how the state and its agencies collect and disburse the huge revenues derived from a greater variety of taxes, licenses, etc., than any other state levies.

By reading these articles, the people of Louisiana can become well informed on the subject of state taxation vitally affecting every person in the state. Watch for them on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays in The News-STAR and Morning World.

KENNETH BUCK IS GIVEN LONG TERM IN STATE PRISON

His Brother Cyril Is Found Not Guilty In Kidnapping Case

DEFENDANT IS CALM

Judge Sentences Kenneth To Not Less Than 24 Years In Pen

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 24.—(P)—Kenneth Buck was sentenced tonight to not less than 24 nor more than 25 years in state's prison for the kidnapping of 10-year-old Margaret "Peggy" McMath and the extortion of $60,000 ransom from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil C. McMath of Harwichport and Detroit.

The sentence was pronounced by Judge Edward F. Hanify a few minutes after Kenneth had been convicted and his brother, Cyril Buck, acquitted of the kidnapping and extortion charges.

Kenneth, who shed tears during the trial, stood up and received the long sentence without flinching. His aged mother, Mrs. Bertha Buck, collapsed and was taken from the courtroom. Other relatives cried openly, and Mrs. Albert Chase, a sister of Kenneth, left the room near collapse.

Cyril, meanwhile, sat in the dock unmoved by the verdict that acquitted him. His counsel, Willard Carleton, rushed to his side and shook his hand. Cyril smiled wanly.

Immediately after the jury's verdict was announced, Cyril's attorney moved that his client be dismissed.

As soon as Kenneth's sentence was pronounced a deputy who sat with him snapped handcuffs on his wrists.

Previous to pronouncement of the sentence, Attorney Burwick pleaded with the court for leniency, declaring his client had never previously been convicted of a serious offense, and asking the court to consider his family.

The district attorney, however, asked for a maximum sentence and it was never concluded.

After the ethics and grievance committee of the bar association had recommended that the attorney-general be expelled, Porterie appealed to the executive committee. Earlier this week, he tendered his resignation, charging that the ouster move against him was "a political set-up."

A close personal and political friend of U. S. Senator Huey P. Long, Porterie resigned shortly after Senator Long returned here from Washington. He said in a statement that the bar group might try or not try his appeal, as it was fit.

The bar association's executive committee, in a formal statement issued today by W. W. Young, secretary, after a meeting here, reviewed chronologically the history of the case, asserting that "certain members in good standing" had filed the charges of unprofessional conduct last January.

Porterie had filed the charges last January, he said, to prevent the state from investigating him.

He was warned in advance of yesterday's raid. Today we received another threat to the effect that the next visit by the foreign craft would result in dropping not pamphlets but "other things." Germany is in a grave state of excitement on account of yesterday's happenings.

The entire German press today demanded air equality.

FARMER IS SLAIN IN WINN PARISH

Argument Over Weight Of Bushel of Potatoes Has Fatal Ending

WINNFIELD, La., June 24.—(P)—An argument over whether a bushel of potatoes weighs 60 or 70 pounds, ended in gun play today which cost the life of Ira Ates, 31-year-old tenant farmer, in the Atlanta community about 12 miles south of Winnfield.

H. A. Martin, 37, owner of the farm on which Ates was a tenant, was released after his surrender to Sheriff Bryant Sholars when a coroner's jury held that the death of Ates was "justifiable homicide."

A shotgun, which was not loaded, was found near Ates' body at the gate to Martin's yard. Ates, renewing an argument over the potatoes which began Thursday but which Martin had been settled, approached the Martin home on horseback today and called for Martin to come out, witnesses at the coroner's inquest said.

Martin at first refused to come out of his home, witnesses said, but when summoned a second time by Ates, the farm owner walked out. Ates, witnesses said, had dismounted from his horse and was standing just outside the yard with his shotgun resting on the top gate and aimed at Martin. Martin went back into the house and picked up his single-barreled shotgun. He returned and fired. A charge of shot tore Ates' face, causing instant death, Coroner J. F. May said.

Whether Ates attempted to fire his weapon is not known. Mrs. Ira Ates, widow of the victim, testified at the coroner's inquest that neither she nor her husband knew that his shotgun was empty.

Bandits Beat Woman As She Refuses Key to Car

PORT SMITH, Ark., June 24.—(P)—Two desperadoes who wounded an officer with a sub-machine gun at Alma last night, appeared at a farm house in the Ozark mountains near Winslow today, beat Mrs. John Rogers with a chain when she refused to give them the keys to her motor car and fled.

Posses searched through the underbrush tonight in the vicinity of the Rogers home. Guards were posted on nearby roads and it was believed the gunmen were hemmed in.

Mrs. Rogers, alone when the men appeared, was badly bruised and cut about the legs and body, for her refusal to give up the keys.

"We'll fix it so nobody can use it," Mrs. Rogers said the gunman exclaimed. She saw the car push the car from the garage and head it for a 20-foot cliff.

Mrs. Rogers managed to run to the car and turn it into a tree. The men fled with their machine gun into the hills back of the house and Mrs. Rogers telephoned police.

PALACE LEADS IN CITY ENTERPRISE

Local Store Has Remarkable Record of Achievement in 30 Years

One of the great retail business enterprises of Monroe that has achieved widespread attention because of its progressive accomplishments in nearly one-third of a century since its establishment, is the Palace department store, whose presiding genius and inspiration is its president, Sig Masur.

Starting in 1903 in the building which is now occupied by Miss Johnnie Smith Elbert, Mr. Masur started his first expansion program in 1914, when a two-story structure was built by him adjoining his original store. Two years later in 1916, he doubled his space by adding to this two-story structure already built. This addition was in advance of the times when it was built but it was not long before more space was needed.

In 1925 another adjoining parcel of ground was purchased and the six-story addition was added, this also appeared to be more floor space than needed but The Palace soon absorbed and used every foot of floor space to its best advantage.

During the past few years many stores have closed floors but not the Palace. Although they have retained all their selling space and all employees, there has been no demand for any more expansion. Mr. Masur continued to improve and add to the present structure. In 1931 the large sign now on the front of the building was erected. This sign was especially designed and constructed for the Palace. It is a replica of the Empire State building and contains over 650 feet of neon tubing. It is one of the largest signs of its kind in the south. Early this year a large roof sign, the largest double tube neon sign in the state, made its appearance.

Mr. Masur then turned his attention to the inside of the building with the idea in mind of making the

FISCAL METHODS ROLL UP DEBTS

Palace a more pleasant and comfortable place in which to shop. A large cooling system comprised of a little more than two tons of refrigerating machinery, costing $2,500, was installed to cool the fitting rooms on the second floor. This was purchased from the York Ice Machine company, the largest manufacturer of air conditioning machinery in the world. This huge piece of machinery is mounted on a cork base that makes it almost silent. The refrigerant used is known as Freon-F-12 and is the most expensive refrigerant known. While the system works under approximately 150 pounds pressure the machinery is tested to stand 3,000 pounds, a safety feature few cooling systems boast of. The cooled air is supplied to the fitting rooms and a temperature of 20 degrees below the outside temperature is maintained at all times.

Monroe business men acknowledge that the steps of progress made by the Palace in its thirty years of existence marks a definite era in Monroe. Many stores in cities ten times the size of Monroe are just beginning to offer their customers the conveniences of completely modern equipment such as those afforded by Monroe's largest department store.

As one merchant expressed it, "We look to Sig Masur as the leader who points the way to the accomplishment of those things which are for the highest interest and advancement of the business life of this community."

Real Estate Transfers

A number of leases filed Saturday in the office of clerk of court, transferred to Edna Sullivan all of the interests of the different grantors in the northwest quarter of section 30, township 19 north, range 4 east, lying south and east of a diagonal line across the quarter section from the northeast corner to the southwest corner, containing 72.84 acres. Leases were granted by eight different groups, as follows: Leola Johnson, Granville Cooper and Boisy Cooper; Ola Mae Baker Hollida, George Baker and Rufus Baker; Elias Cooper, W. L. Young and Susie Cook; Amos Baker, Ardene Baker and Ardene Miles; Henrietta Cooper, Louis Cooper and Henry Cooper; Louisa Smith, Addie Flowers, Rebecca White and Della Burrell; Fred Sumler, Saundra Washington Stevens and Artuna Mitchell; Robert Eubanks, Levurna Watson and Charlotte Washington Stevens. Consideration to each group of grantors was $25.

$4,500,000 tax against the state's resources. Louisiana couldn't even pay anything on account. It might, of course, have met at least a portion of this fiscal loan bill by practicing economy in government. But, an election had been held in January and there were thousands of men and women clamoring for jobs. Not all of them got them, but many had to be provided for. So, in the face of a staggering fiscal debt absolutely beyond the ability of the state to pay, new taxes were imposed and many of the faithful placed as a result of this policy. With every reason for them to go down, the costs of government in Louisiana went up.

But, money or no money, jobs or no jobs, the fiscal loan charges had to be met in some way. So the idea of a bond issue was conceived at a time when bond values were at their lowest ebb everywhere. A public debt being a public debt, no matter how unnecessary or wasteful, the people apparently approved the bond proposition at the polls. There was, it seemed, nothing else for them to do. We are speaking now from the public record. Legal endorsement of the bond amendment has been seriously questioned in grand jury rooms in New Orleans.

At the time the bonds were sold, the state administration chortled gleefully and boasted of the terms of the deal, pronounced by it "highly advantageous." As a matter of cold, inconvertible figuring, Louisiana lost $370,425.84 in this bond deal, exclusive of interest. This sum represented the difference between the face value of the bonds and the aggregate amount paid for them; and it must, necessarily, be added to the total of the debt.

Here are the incontrovertible facts: The amount of the bond issue was $1,950,000. It was sold at $1.90 on the dollar, which yielded $1,934,200. To this amount was added $45,375.16 paid by the purchasers as accrued interest.

The bonds were dated January 1, but were not delivered until March 1. The total amount paid to the state therefore, was $1,979,375.16. It will have to pay the bond holders $4,950,000 with interest. And the debt which this bond issue is to cancel in 20 years, amounted altogether to $4,482,154.11. This is the kind of a financial deal which would speedily wreck any financial or business institution in the world.

The state not only appropriated by executing fiscal loans millions more than it could possibly pay, but when settlement day arrived had to sell its bonds on a falling market and, in addition to paying millions of dollars in interest, will pay the bondholders $307,000, in round numbers, more than they invested in the purchase. Indirectly, because of market conditions, the state paid a handsome premium to the purchasers of the bonds.

The following is a four-year record (1928-32) of the fiscal debt of the state:

'Lange Kerls' Guard Hitler

German Chancellor Emulates Frederick the Great With Six-Footers in Personal Troop

Strapping 6-footers have been picked from Germany's brown shirts to act as bodyguards for Chancellor Hitler.

BERLIN, June 24—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has selected a bodyguard of exceptionally tall and physically fit storm troopers.

He thereby emulates the example of Frederick the Great whom he has held up to Nazis as the incarnation of the true Prussian spirit. The soldier king's pet hobby was his regiment of "lange kerls," which translates literally as "long fellows."

Like Frederick's regiment, the present "lange kerls" are each more than 20 years old and more than six feet tall. Their leader, Martin Kohlrosser of Munich, is six inches over that standard, towering head and shoulders above his chief.

Black uniforms and glossy black helmets distinguish the picked troopers from the ordinary brown shirts.

They are constantly on duty at the chancellery and act as personal couriers as well as bodyguards.

The detachment leads a clock-like life. The recruit is that each select trooper hopes some day to command a regiment of storm troopers.

Suckers May Still Purchase Postholes in Spite of Law

WASHINGTON, June 24—(AP)—In spite of the federal securities act, the gullible investor still may buy postholes, but the government is going to let him find out beforehand it's just a posthole he's buying.

That, in brief, is the way Chairman Charles March of the federal trade commission describes the manner in which the sweeping new law governing securities sales will seek to protect the average citizen with a few hard-earned dollars to invest.

"There will still be wildcat stocks but the investor will have full opportunity to know they're wildcat," March explained. "There won't be anything to stop anybody from buying a hole in the ground if he wants to, but everybody is going to be able to know first that it is just a hole in the ground."

There will be two ways to find this out under regulations now being completed by commission experts.

First of all, an exhaustive compilation of financial facts will be filed with the commission by every issuer of new securities.

Secondly, a condensation of the same information must be printed conspicuously on prospectuses used to sell securities.

These prospectuses will be shown to the prospective purchaser and they will contain what facts the commission shall prescribe for inclusion. The buyer's assurance that he is getting all needed financial information is the seller's knowledge that if he omits a "material fact" he is civilly and criminally liable.

This is where the old adage "Let the buyer beware" becomes reversed under President Roosevelt's recommendation to "Let the seller beware." "Of course," March said, "if we put the facts in the investor's hands so he'll know all about what he's buying, the government can't help it if he makes a poor investment anyhow."

If the facts in a prospectus don't satisfy an investor's curiosity about a security, he may write the commission. If he pays the cost, the commission will supply a photostatic copy of the complete registration statement for the security. Or he may ask for specific figures in the statement.

But under no circumstances will the commission offer any advice about the security."

again defended his government's position in a declaration to the press.

There is "no basis and no logic" in the thought that America's domestic plans are incompatible with international efforts to halt the crisis, Secretary Hull declared.

From the American viewpoint, he said, there is only one way the conference can go now and that is in the direction of world-wide cooperation to restore price levels.

Early talk of de facto stabilization of the dollar convinced the American delegates that such a move would undermine American markets at this time and defeat the recovery efforts originating at Washington.

Therefore a program to initiate a world-wide campaign for credit expansion and the launching of public works will be pressed by the American group in the hope that stabiliza-

Difficulties in the way of agreement on such problems as trade barriers while the leading world currencies, the American and the British, are off the gold standard, thus leaving international commerce with an uncertain measuring stick, are recognized by Mr. Hull and his colleagues, but the American view is that these problems must be solved simultaneously.

Honesty As a Principle of Character

A few nights ago, a motorist, after trying vainly for some time to start his car, discovered that someone had drained the gasoline tank. A neighbor told the motorist that he had seen a man doing something at the back of the car, but had thought nothing of it.

"A man!" ejaculated the motorist. "I had hoped it was a boy. Well," he added philosophically, "I had rather be the man whose gasoline is stolen than the man who steals gasoline."

That terse observation hits squarely on two fundamentals of life. What the motorist meant was this: He had hoped that the theft had been committed by some young person whose brain patterns had not become fixed, whose traits had not become set. He had hoped that some boy who did not rightly comprehend the enormity of stealing had been the culprit. Boys often steal just for the thrill of adventure, for the kick they get out of doing the forbidden thing. There are boys who would rather steal watermelons out of a high-fenced garden patch, guarded by a savage bull-dog belonging to an ogre, than get better melons from the refrigerator at home. The average boy is inclined to steal without realizing that he is actually committing any sin.

The honest man is likely to be a person who, as a boy, was taught not to steal. In other words, honesty is usually an acquired spiritual trait. It is not a wholly natural untutored impulse, any more than it is natural for mankind to do any of the moral things that spiritual understanding requires him to do.

So this motorist was sorry that a man, not a boy, had stolen his gasoline, for it indicated to him that somebody's boy had grown up to manhood without being taught not to steal. The boy or girl who reaches maturity without being educated to refrain from or to control primitive, unmoral impulses or desires is unfortunate and a social liability.

And when the motorist said that he would rather be the man whose gasoline is stolen than the one who did the stealing, he pointed out a great truth. For in losing his gasoline he had merely lost something of material value. Probably he had been but little more than inconvenienced. He was just as good a man after his gasoline was stolen as he was before. But the man who had stolen the gasoline wasn't. He had manifested a serious defect of character and the theft had further impaired his character.

Every time we yield to character weakness we further weaken our characters. And every time we resist such a weakness we strengthen our characters. Building character is a long, hard job, and is frequently accompanied by failure upon failure; success is attained only through persistent effort.

CAUSES OF BANKRUPTCIES

Some interesting facts relating to the causes of bankruptcies have been revealed in a study of this subject made by experts of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and Yale university's institute of human relations and law school.

Among the conclusions reached was that, in bankruptcies of merchants responsibility does not rest entirely upon consumers who failed for various reasons to pay for the goods bought. The merchants, in a large number of cases, share the blame, it was found.

"Too many merchants have followed the policy," said the report, "of selling the merchandise and getting the name of the purchaser on their books, how or when he is to pay for it being a secondary matter . . . With the whole machinery of modern business set to stimulate sales, the tendency to overload the consumer with credit is almost irresistible."

In other words, bad business judgment was shown by inducing consumers to buy beyond their needs and means.

This trend was noted to a wide extent in the cases coming within the survey. High-pressure salesmanship methods flourished, with the result that people were loaded with more things than they could pay for. Of the 266 consumer bankruptcies studied, less than 5 per cent were regarded as "dishonest." The great majority had intended paying when they made the purchases but later found out they could not do this.

The underlying cause was extravagance. This extravagance was encouraged, in a large measure, by high-pressure salesmanship, and upon the latter, therefore, much of the blame must rest.

The coming revival of business is likely to be accompanied by more sound methods, on the part of both the seller and the buyer. The lesson will have proved a rather costly one but it may help to build a more substantial credit and industrial structure for the future.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES A. MONTAGUE

VOICING AN OBJECTION

After reading Admiral Leigh's pronouncement against strong language by enlisted men in the navy.

You can hardly expect that a tar

When he's caught in a bit of a jam

Or his ship goes aground on a bar

Will refrain from emitting a d—n.

The life of a sailor, afloat or ashore,

Would be one of depressing inanity,

If he could not, when riled,

Go a little bit wild

And indulge in soul-soothing profanity.

I am sure even Noah, when swamped by a sea,

Used words more expressive than "Pshaw!" or "Dear Me!"

I'm aware that bad language is wrong.

But, with people who navigate ships,

Whenever a gale comes along,

Unbidden it leaps to the lips.

Neither skipper nor dock hand can hold himself down

To the phrases one hears in a nursery;

The things that they say

When an anchor won't weigh

Are certain to sound pretty "cursory."

Any lad who is fitted to hand reef and steer

Will now and then pain a more sensitive ear.

If the men of the sea may not use

Their ancient, inherited speech,

When their ship springs a leak on a cruise

Or runs hard aground on a beach,

If the tar, in the future is forced to comply

With Admiral Leigh's stern admonishment,

I think the poor lad

Will be driven stark mad.

Or perish in utter astonishment.

Leave the speech of his calling unfettered and free

Or Romance will depart from the face of the sea.

Repeal and Racketeering

By BRUCE CATTON

Congress appoints a committee to investigate the racketeering evil, and immediately afterward gangsters shoot down four peace officers in a busy part of Kansas City—thereby proving that congress in its wisdom acted none too soon.

We have been scandalized by our racketeers for a good many years, now; but so far we have done nothing whatever to put them out of existence, and we have hardly even been able to get very greatly alarmed about them.

This, perhaps, was due partly to the fact that we had a good alibi-prohibition. Whenever any city displayed a peculiarly ugly manifestation of underworld insolence, we could lay the whole thing to the eighteenth amendment, shake our heads sadly over the evils of prohibition and let go at that.

But unless all signs fail we are about to lose our alibi; and it will be interesting to see what we do about the racketeer thereafter.

One would have to have a child-like faith and an unquestioning optimism to believe that racketeering will automatically cease the moment the eighth amendment is repealed—if, of course, it actually is repealed.

The dry law has given aid and comfort to the racketeer, unquestionably; but it didn't call him into existence, and he won't vanish when it vanishes.

What we must face is simply the fact that the underworld has discovered, during the past dozen years, that organized society is often helpless before daring and ruthless criminals.

This is partly due to an antiquated and cumbersome legal system, which gives the criminal much more than an even break when he is charged with a crime. It is partly due to a disorganized, politics-riden police system which puts every city under terrific handicaps in its fight on crime. It is partly due to the automobile, which has given the criminal new mobility. It is partly due to the traditional corruption and inefficiency which pervade almost every large city's government from top to bottom.

These are the points on which the congressional committee must give us a lot of detailed information.

The time for dismissing all of the evils of racketeering with the airy remark that it's all due to prohibition is about over. It is up to us now to roll up our sleeves, find out just exactly how and why the underworld is what it is, and do something to remedy matters.

So They Say

Nationalism in the sphere of politics may be essential to human freedom. Self-sufficient nationalism in economics is the death knell of advancing prosperity.—Prime Minister MacDonald.

Contrary to many statements concerning Shakespeare's domestic life, there was no strife in Shakespeare's household.—Prof. B. Roland Lewis, University of Utah, a Shakespearean authority.

What's wrong with the fight business? There is too much "Yoo, hoo, Sweetie!" stuff in it. Do you think people come to fights to see a couple of ballroom dancers? They want to see action.—Max Baer, pugilist.

Countries really experienced in democracy—the United States, Switzerland, England, the British dominions and the Scandinavian countries—have not been and are not now threatened with dictatorships.—General John J. Pershing.

I like this new 3.2 beer for two reasons. First, it is a good drink and, second, because I believe it's put the big bootleggers out of business.—Izzy Einstein, former ace federal prohibition agent.

How About Everything

By E. W. HOWE

Plato has been exploited thousands of years as a philosopher; as probably the wisest man in history. . . . A writer lately sold a story to a syndicate of newspapers declaring that Plato was not a philosopher or thinker, but only noted in his time as a strong man; a huge fellow who, being attached to two horses at street carnivals, pulled them all over the lot. . . . Much in print is like that: now, interesting, clever, well-done, and invented.

One of the most disturbing quarrels among men concerns the meaning of morality. The dictionary adds to the confusion by giving dozens of definitions. One of them is: "Guidance deducible from a fable"; another: "Courage to do right unmoved byodium or ridicule"; still another: "Probability that can hardly fail."

Meanwhile every disputant should know that the word morality means only civilization. Our earliest and rudest ancestors realized the importance of providing shelter from storms; the advisability of adding comforts and conveniences in their lives.

If I meet a stranger, and say of him he is a civil man, it means he is disposed to be civilized: polite, fair, educated, reasonable in his judgments; willing to exchange civility with his neighbors; to recognize not only the rights of women and children, but the rights of men.

If you sincerely wish to be known as a civil man, and make reasonable effort to deserve that reputation, I will add my voice to that of the world in declaring you a civilized gentleman.

And civil men practice the rules of civilization because long experience has demonstrated it is finally the best and easiest way, and the most profitable. If civility did not pay, it would not have been so long and universally recommended.

The best word I encounter in reading is behaviorism. The new and intelligent religion we have been hoping for might be founded on it. Behaviorism is the substance of the advice of parents to children, the best and most unselfish teaching in the world. It includes culture, education, success in life; civilization itself. Preachers and orators always advocate it; school teachers recommend it constantly to children; all ladies and gentlemen practice it—no finer sentiment may be used in writing. . . . Yet, the word does not seem popular; I see it only in an occasional book, very rarely in newspapers, and never hear it used in conversation.

A disgusted gentleman lately reigned as mayor of a town of twelve thousand people and painted a card in the newspapers telling of the agencies he is quitting. The honorable gentleman specially mentioned one citizen who had constantly opposed the administration, charging it had done nothing for him or for anyone. The mayor proves from the records that the complaining citizen had, within a few weeks, received $16.25 in cash from a sewer payroll specially inaugurated by the city to provide employment; nineteen 50-pound sacks of flour; fuel of the value of $16.25 at wholesale prices; twenty pounds of lard per month, and numerous gifts of clothing, canned goods, blankets, quilts, etc. In addition, the complainant called on the mayor nearly every day to state his wrongs, and the mayor gave him frequent gifts of money. The poor man had five children. The retiring mayor cites also that they were provided with free schooling, luncheons, dramatic, athletic and musical entertainments, and the free services of dentists, district nurses, etc. When congress got around to investigating the various relief programs of the past few years, I shall be glad to supply the name of this witness.

Years ago I knew an old fellow, smart above the average himself, who said his daughter Allison was the only member of his family who had any sense. Once his wife went to big doctors to be looked over, and they reported she would not live a week unless operated on at once. "Allison," the father said, "you go on and see what sense there is in it." And Allison went on, brought her mother home without an operation, and she is alive yet. . . . We never had an Allison in our family; I think I'll ask her husband for permission to appeal to her in my graver emergencies.

Although I constantly dislike the impudent propagandists who constantly urge the people to become wasters and enthusiastic fools for wrong measures, no one more readily submits to them. When I travel I know it is an outrage to pay a sleeping car porter for services paid him for when I bought my ticket, but I am always anxious to satisfy him: no coward worries more from fear he has not done his full duty as a slave.

I always take off by hat in a public elevator when a stenographer enters, and feel foolish. Last winter, in Florida, I occasionally went to a cafeteria for food. Once I forgot to tip the colored boy who carried my tray a few feet, and was uncomfortable most of the day. I am constantly in rebellion, but the mildest of rebels.

Privately, my greatest heroes are those Russians who kicked open the door of the palace, and pulled the czar's whiskers. I have always been so afraid of rulers, so cordially despise their weakness and the unreasonable tasks they impose on me, one of my secret sins is I admire these Russian ruffians. How they put the preachers and women in their places! Having always been a country town man, the farmers have ruled me. Observe the bold attitude of the Russian ruffians toward farmers! I know the Russians are wrong, and that they would be better off if they observed the conventions, but these scoundrels are at least not cowards; I'm ashamed I am.

Everything points to rapid and complete success of the campaign in Ouachita parish, Mr. Strahan said, adding that he had discussed the plan of cotton surplus control with more than 300 farmers within the past two weeks and that he has found the sentiment practically 100 per cent in favor of retiring from 25 to 50 per cent of their cotton acreages. Many expressed the belief that if the campaign succeeds, it will go over in a big way and result in a substantial increase in the price of cotton, but that if it should fail, cotton prices will slump to low levels, as was the case in 1932, with a large crop and that the results will be disastrous to cotton farmers everywhere. Those who are able to visualize the possibilities are anxious to start the campaign and they seem to constitute the majority, Mr. Strahan said.

RUSTON, June 24.—(Special)—County Agent J. A. Shealy has called a parish-wide meeting of farmers at Ruston at 10 o'clock Monday morning, to hear Dr. R. L. Thomas, economist and statistician of Louisiana State University, explain the details of Secretary Wallace's plan to reduce cotton yield by plowing up 25 to 50 per cent of the cotton acreage of the parish. A parish control committee, composed of J. C. Covens, Hico; John L. Boddy, Ruston; J. C. Daniels, Simsboro, has been named to have general supervision of the administration of the control plan. After the government will pay for cotton plowed up, the local committee must visit the proposed plot, make an estimate of its probable yield and put its approval on the grower's agreement to destroy the designated acreage.

FARMERVILLE, June 24.—(Special)—A mass meeting of farmers has been called at the court house in Farmerville Monday morning at 9 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing and carrying out a plan for cotton acreage reduction in Union parish as mapped out in the general plan of the agricultural department and the extension department of the Louisiana State University under direction of Major J. G. Lee, dean of the college of agriculture. This meeting, it is expected, will be attended by more than one thousand farmers from all parts of the parish.

Circulars have been printed and distributed so that every farmer may have notice of the meeting. Several citizens have taken it upon themselves to see to the distribution of these notices and farmers and business men at Farmerville, Marion, Downsville, Bernice, Spearville, Truxton, Oakland, Cherry Ridge, Spencer, Haile and Point, as well as all other communities in the parish, are taking hold of the plan with a vim which bespeaks its success in Union parish.

J. V. Rabb, parish agent for Union parish, and Miss Josephine Houck, home demonstration agent for the parish, attended a meeting at Monroe Thursday, of parish and home demonstration agents from fourteen parishes of northeast Louisiana, at which the general outline of the proposed plan of acreage reduction of cotton was given by Claude W. Davis, district agent, representing the department of agriculture and the Louisiana State University extension department. They stated today that they are convinced the Union parish cotton farmers will subscribe to the plan and sign up for the retirement of a certain amount of acreage as prescribed by the government. Nearly all farmers interviewed to date have declared in favor of it, according to Mr. Rabb.

was to his plea that the court harkened.

Officials said they did not believe Kenneth would be transferred to the prison until Monday.

Kenneth is 28 years old.

The crime for which the brothers were tried was one which drew national attention. "Peggy" was kidnapped from the Harwich Center school at 2:30 p.m., on May 21 by a man who had telephoned the school saying he was the child's father, Neil C. McMath, a former Detroit engineer who is now employed as a boat-builder at Harwichport, and was sending a car for his daughter.

The kidnaper was blacked to look like a negro, and after leading the child into the automobile he bound, gagged and blindfolded "Peggy" and hid her in a cranberry shack until midnight. He then took her to a vacant house almost opposite the home of the Buck brothers and held her there until after midnight the morning of May 5 when she was turned over to her father on board a boat in Wychmere harbor in Harwichport upon the payment of $60,000.

The arrests of the Buck brothers came later that day and the money was recovered, police said, in Kenneth's home.

During the trial Cyril testified that he at no time knew where "Peggy" was being hidden and said as far as he knew his brother was the only person implicated in the kidnaping.

Keneth, however, said a mysterious "Bill," a Hyannis bootlegger, concocted the plot and had told him "Peggy's" father was behind it and would "take care" of Kenneth if he was arrested.

The state contended during the trial that Cyril was a party to the plot from the time of its inception and his role as "go-between" for McMath and the kidnappers was an assumed one and he really was representing himself and his brother during the time the ransom negotiations were being carried on.

The kidnaper was blacked to look like a negro, and after leading the child into the automobile he bound, gagged and blindfolded "Peggy" and hid her in a cranberry shack until have been made available by federal aid, Senator Noe said.

WORK ON RIVER BRIDGE TO BEGIN

On their return from Baton Rouge Saturday, Senator Noe and Mr. Atkins announced that they had had "a very satisfactory conference with the governor regarding the completion of the road program in this parish."

"We impressed on the governor," said Senator Noe, "the necessity for immediate resumption of the work on the bridge over the Ouachita river. The governor's response was prompt and cordial. He assured us that the contracts for the approaches to the new bridge would be let without delay, and that the work would be started again by July 10. It will be rushed to completion as early as possible."

The construction of the Ouachita river bridge was suspended last December when funds were held up due to the failure of the sale of bonds voted for highway work in the state.

All of the work on the piers in the river had been completed when the work was suspended. The superstructure and the approaches on both the east and west sides of the river are left to be finished under the new program.

West Monroe Stores To Observe Early Closing

For the remainder of the month of June, and through July, stores of West Monroe are to be closed at 6 p.m., the hour agreed upon recently at a conference held of merchants of that city. However on Saturday night, the time of closing will be at the regular hour, no change being made.

If the plan works out as is expected, a similar plan is to be tried in August.

Monroe has for its early closing hours through the week, with the exception of Saturday, 5 p.m., but it was voted to make the West Monroe closing hour 6 p.m. for the accommodation of shoppers who do not leave their work until 5 p.m.

Several Drilling Permits Issued During Past Week

Several permits to drill were issued the past week at the conservation office here, minerals division, in charge of Capt. R. P. Webb. One of these is the test of Inabot & Pipes, in Ouachita parish, known as Van Horn No. 3. The location is in section 14-18-4 east.

In Richland parish, the United Gas Public Service company, of Shreveport, will drill J. A. Noe No. 1, in section 14-17-5 east.

One completion is reported, that of Inabot & Pipes, Van Horn No. 2, in section 14-18-4 east. This was gauged as making a daily open flow of one million cubic feet of gas daily.

By good work in America, President Roosevelt can get all the reputation he wants in London, without any "dash" to a meaningless conference.

A NEW LONG WORD swims into your ken, to keep company with "relativity, erg, neutron, positron, quantum theory, Heisenberg principle of uncertainty, etc."

"COMPLEMENTARITY" is the new word, introduced by the learned Dane, Niels Bohr, "godfather of the modern, complicated atom."

To some, this complementarity makes Einstein's relativity seem childishly simple. A lifetime consists of the "ponderables and imponderables," the things that can be weighed and that can't be weighed, in the material and the mental world.

We lead a dual life and each half forever contradicts the other. Man's brain leads a Jekyll and Hyde existence.

THIS SELF-CONTRADICTING duality may some time go to join the "vortex theory" and other rejected speculations. Meanwhile, "complementarity" is the word, and Samuel Johnson, who said, "Sir, we know the will is free and there is an end of it," would have to say now, "Sir, the will is free sometimes in our duality and sometimes it is not free."

AT SUDBURY, Ontario, Canadian courts and medical experts are puzzled by Tom Kupina, who thinks he is blind but is not blind, only hysteria alone interfering with his sight. His suit against an insurance company for "total and irrevocable loss of sight of both eyes" is dismissed. His sight will come back suddenly when hysteria, caused by a mine explosion, passes off.

So much for Tom Kupina.

MANY WISE SCIENTISTS tell you all about the universe, how its size and the amount of matter and energy is limited, how you can sail all around it in a "few hundred million light years," how it is destined to run down and end some day, perhaps only a few million billion years from now.

Those wise persons, unlike Mr. Kupina, think they see what you do not see.

THURSDAY, EIGHT MEN that had rowed on the Harvard crew in 1883, fifty years before, all rowed together and all were past seventy years of age and their 1883 coxswain steered them. All of them are successful professional and business men.

This discourages the suggestion that collegiate rowing is bad for the heart and shortens life.

A university that teaches men to take care of themselves live long and return fifty years after graduation in good physical condition, is more valuable than one that merely teaches boys to win races or football games.

UNITED STATES government agents raided a bootleg alcohol plant in New York Friday, seized a truckload of alcohol. A group of hijackers appeared, took the truck and the alcohol away from the government agents, all within one block of a police station.

The hijackers, professional killers presumably, took away the guns of the government agents, and a little later sent them back politely, wrapped in a package. The government agents, evidently considerably confused, said that they could not tell whether there were four or twenty hijackers. Professionals usually beat amateurs.

NOW THAT BIG BANKS no longer pay interest on deposits, under the banking arrangement, big city banks will apparently, no longer have the pleasure of playing with the money of little country banks. Out-of-town banks drew from New York, Friday, $196,000,000. Not getting any interest, they think they might as well keep the money at home.

WHEN THE CRICKETS lead the chorus of insect voices . . . when the willows stand motionless . . . when every flower droops its head and the weather makes us feel that we are being punished for our sins we know that June has passed and July with its fire-cracker heat is upon us . . . Mon Dieu! How hot the days and nights . . . sufficiently so to put your nerves on edge when tortured by the thoughts of cool mountain brooks, the bounding main or northern retreats where the blissful summer days slip by all too soon. . . . The weather, however, has no terrors for those young moderns who loll on the Zeigarn beach . . . for those who slip away at nightfall on board one of those comfortable house boats and other pleasure craft for secluded, shady, spots where the sky and river meet. . . . Others who go blissfully on their way, unmindful of the weather are those who wear sparklers on the third finger of the left hand. . . . We saw a dazzling stone that quite took our breath the other day and were told confidentially that the first of August was the date for the thrilling event. . . . Weddings remind us of Louise and Frank who spoke the words that united them forever last Tuesday night. . . . Everyone you knew was there. . . . Of course you saw Coralee Chauffin of Little Rock and her beautiful daughter. . . . They came over for the wedding but have given friends their promise to return soon for a real visit. . . . Mary Stuart Kellogg's lovely little face peering over a huge bouquet of Shasta daisies will ever linger in memory. . . . She was made radiantly happy when Mamie Davis, who is always doing something to make people happy, gave Mary Stuart the bouquet she carried in the wedding. . . . The bride was not so far removed to the seventh heaven that she was unmindful of others. . . . She sent her gorgeous bridal bouquet to a lovely lady whose invalidism does not permit much activity. Mrs. C. T. Dixon. . . . With three wonderful daughters dedicating their lives to her happiness life, in spite of inactivity, must be very sweet to her. . . . So sweet, so gentle and so patient is she that friends are never forgetful of her and in return she gives them the sunshine of her smile and the radiance of a lovely soul. . . . Frank and Louise motored to Rochelle after the wedding you know . . . a beautifully furnished bungalow owned by the Tremont Lumber company officials was placed at their disposal. . . . Early next morning they were dashing to the coast in the handsome new automobile Louise received from Frank as a wedding gift. . . . Oh, yes we would like to mention also that the bride's attendants were remembered with lovely silver vanities. . . . Wasn't Merill Bush exquisite in that lush green frock the night of the wedding? . . . Melodies from this wedding will always echo down the halls of time. . . . Anna Abbington was a picture with the tapers in the background creating a halo around her soft white hair. . . . Mamie Dell McGeorge was there with all the "pep" and magnetism of former days. . . . Ronald Lee Davis, Jr., was all scrubbed and arrayed in starched blues for the part of ringbearer but he firmly refused to face the battery of faces at the last minute. . . . We venture to say he was not the only one who feared that firing line.

Charlotte and Alyce were arm in arm as in days of old. . . . Mary Louise O'Donnell wore a cunning little white hat perched on her marcelled head. . . . She is such a stunning girl. . . . Speaking of white Miss Cora Ellen of Little Rock, spent a few days at Grey Gables, with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shadie last week.

Silver Wedding Celebrated by The Oaklands

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Berney Oakland found them celebrating the happy day on board their comfortable motor boat bound for a cool retreat on the banks of the Ouachita where swimming and the serving of a delectable supper, featured the pleasures of the day. The cutting of a handsome wedding cake embossed in silver was a distinct feature of this memorable occasion.

Mr. Oakland, a prominent figure in this city where he counts his friends by the score, is of Swedish descent. He was born in Uppsala, the old Viking capital of Sweden. He came to Monroe in 1906, fell in love and married Miss Lillian deGraffenreid, member of a pioneer Ouachita parish family, in 1908.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakland's five children, Mrs. F. S. Broussard of Lafayette, Mrs. Darwin Nichols, Ruby, Claude and John Berney Oakland were present to share the pleasures of the anniversary. Mrs. D. Morgan and Mrs. F. Stevens, intimate friends, were also present.

Far at the end of many a garden, away from this world of rush and fretting, there is a pool, it is ever so tiny, yet it holds within it the best antidote for the haste, and hurry of life. On its surface float silent and lovely and benevolent spirits which we call waterlilies.

These gorgeous queens of the waters are garnished from the four corners of the earth—pink ones from Sweden, red ones from India, light blue from Australia and Africa, yellow and white from Florida and Mexico. But the waterlilies native to most of the United States are usually white or slightly pink.

Each of our waterlilies keeps its eyes open only a certain definite number of hours each day or night. And since the beginning of interest in these water nymphs man has hoped to keep them awake for a longer period. Dr. D. C. Fairburn, of the Missouri Botanical Gardens, has learned how to prevent day blooming waterlilies from going to sleep. When the flowers open on the Keithen, were D. Ette and Jane McKeithen. Master Holmes McKeithen acted in the capacity of ring bearer.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was unusually beautiful in her bridal gown of white organza fashioned along Empire lines with a puffing of point de-ja-beau.

Charming simplicity characterized the marriage ceremony, performed at the Methodist Protestant church of Grayson with the groom's father, Rev. E. M. Meurer of Baton Rouge officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and blue hydrangeas and delphinium, rambling from the window boxes, and a bouquet of white roses and valley lilies was carried in her arms.

Following the ceremony a recent wedding was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the pink and blue color theme was accentuated in every detail. A confectionery court was served during the evening.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a traveling costume a few hours later and left with Mr. Mouser on a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they were at home to their friends in Laredo, Texas, where Mr. Mouser is a member of the high school faculty.

The bride is a general favorite in this community as manifested in many beautiful social affairs arranged by friends in her honor during engagement days. She is a graduate of Principia College, St. Louis, Mo.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. E. Faulk, Mrs. E. K. Flournay, and Mr. Walter Lee Smith of Monroe; Mr. A. Pennekake and Mr. Ernest Fox of Wiesner, Mrs. S. Hammon of Crowley, Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Mouser of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Marge Hazel and Ruby Mouser of Laredo, and Mr. Roy Mouser of

Golden Wedding Anniversary Brings Old Friends Together in Hammonds Country Home

How old along with me, the first for which the last was made."

Emerson was right. Human beings must go through life together, sharing the joys and sorrows of the first part to enjoy the rich splendor of the latter days. Fifty years of wedded life is sufficiently rare these days of chance and change to warrant a celebration. Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Hammonds of Calhoun, La., are numbered among the few who have kept in step, one with the other, for fifty years and are now enjoying the fruits of a full rich life, in their comfortable home they have occupied for forty-eight years. Sunday, June the eighteenth, they kept open house in commemoration of their golden wedding anniversary and friends came from far and near to pay their respects.

Standing under the towering pecan trees planted when she came to this home as a beautiful bride, Mrs. Hammonds stood with Mr. Hammonds and their children and grand children to welcome their friends. True southern hospitality, the type of which is fast disappearing, can be found in this little home, tucked away among the oaks and magnolias. The same variety of flowers which bordered the walk fifty years ago still fill their perfume on the summer air. The home, with its high ceilings and wide halls, typical of the old south, was open to the guests. Mrs. Hammonds, an accomplished musician, entertained with a number of compositions, popular fifty years ago. Time turned backward in its flight on this memorable occasion and brought back memories of the happy day when Mr. and Mrs. Hammonds crossed the threshold of their home to enjoy fifty years of wedded bliss. It is interesting to note that Mr. Larche Ehrhard, who signed the marriage license fifty years ago, was present, also Mr. John Green Davis of Ruston who photographed the wedding party and enjoyed the pleasure of making a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Hammonds enjoying their golden wedding anniversary.

During the afternoon golden iced and individual cakes iced in yellow and embossed with gold letters bearing the dates 1883-1938 were served. A handsome wedding cake embossed in gold occupied the center of the lace draped coffee table in the dining room backed with old-fashioned garden flowers.

Telegrams of congratulations poured in during the day and friends came laden with handsome gifts expressive of their good will and sincere affection for this estimable couple. Mr. and Mrs. Hammonds were assisted by their son, Mr. Leon Hammonds in dispensing hospitality. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Larche Ehrhard, Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott, El Dorado, Ark.; Miss Jessie Mae Elliott, El Dorado, Ark.; Misses Shirley and Alice Elliott, El Dorado, Ark.; Dr. and Mrs. Lane Calhoun, Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. John Green Davis, Ruston; Mr. Jerome Murphy, El Dorado; Mrs. Clara Fortson, Shreveport; Mr. Archie Douglas, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Alva Murphy, Calhoun, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Yankees Win Final Game
With Browns and Hold
Second Place

CHICAGO, June 24.—(P)—Relief pitcher Bill McAfee quickly quelled a ninth inning rally today with the tying runs on base to give the American League leading Washington Senators a 7 to 5 victory over the Chicago White Sox, their fourth straight in the series.

A prodigal home run by Al Simmons which bounded off the roof of left field pavilion, started the rally. A single by Luke Appling and a walk to Jimmy Dykes caused the removal of Walter Stewart, the Senators' starting hurler, Jack Russell taking over the job. Singles by Gruber and Swanson accounted for two more runs and McAfee replaced Russell, Hayes and Haas then grounded into easy force plays.

The Sox scored twice in the second inning, but Washington tied it up in the fifth. They picked up a run in the seventh and another in the eighth, then in the ninth, after Milton Gaston had given way to a pinch batsman, pounced on Red Faber for three more runs.

LETTERS THREATEN SHARKEY AND DEMAND $5,000

CHAMPION MAKES HURRIED JOURNEY TO BOSTON HOME

Connection Seen Between Letters and Jack's Visit To Family

BOSTON, June 24.—(P)—The Boston American tonight said that three letters threatening bodily harm to Jack Sharkey and demanding $5,000 from Johnny Buckley, his manager, were the real reasons for the heavyweight champion's sudden dash from his Orangeburg, N. Y., training camp to his Newton home today.

The newspaper said the letters written in semi-literate fashion, demanded the money be left in a carefully selected spot near Sharkey's home. Boston and Newton police disclaimed knowledge of the threatening letters.

Buckley, however, produced one of the three threats, which were received at Orangeburg, and said that he turned the first one over to New York police. The manager showed one that read:

"Now that this fight of Sharkey more to him and you, all we want is five grand before this week is over. Otherwise we'll get something he's going to him before the fight and Sharkey is done."

"If you keep quiet, say nothing, only come across we will grant you everything will be O. K. and no need to fear anyone belonging to Sharkey will be harmed."

"Otherwise we carry out our plans and Sharkey can't feel like fighting also pay plants besides. We are pretty fair group when chance first. We are well prepared and chances belong to Sharkey, well covered so it's up to you, Buckley, $5,000 in 5-10 days, so if want to play fair now is your chance. Next letter will give instructions where to place money also will be watch from now still you pay as we know you and don't make a foolish move."

JACK SPEEDS HOME

NEWTON, Mass., June 24.—(P)—Fight camp rumors that one of his three children was seriously ill today sent Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, speeding over the ways from Orangeburg, N. Y., to his palatial home in this beautiful Boston suburb.

As he drove up to his door, he found the children, Dorothy, 4; Marilyn, 5, and Jack, Jr., 3, 1/2, playing on the lawn in perfect health. Mrs. Sharkey, who left the training camp Thursday, had just returned from shopping.

The champion, who makes his initial title defense against Primo Carnera in the Long Island bowl next Friday night, played with the children for an hour before starting the 200-mile return trip to Orangeburg, where he has been training for several weeks. Mrs. Sharkey accompanied him back to the camp.

Sharkey said he was assured of the children's good health by his wife by telephone before he started for Newton but feared that she was withholding the truth to prevent him from worrying over family matters during the crucial point of his training.

Sis. Sharkey, with Mrs. John Buckley, wife of the champion's manager, left the fight camp last Thursday and their departure, while not sudden, started Sharkey brooding over his children's welfare. He feared that alarming news, which Mrs. Sharkey had kept a secret, was the reason for her trip home.

VINES MAY JOIN TILDEN ON TOUR

Net Champion "Would Consider" Offer Of $100,000, He Says

LONDON, June 24.—(P)—America's No. 1 tennis ace, Ellsworth Vines, Jr., was deprived of competition today against his fellow Californian, Lester Stoefer, as rain canceled the London championship finals, but he was obliged to combat reports from New York that he was considering an offer of $100,000 to turn professional after this season and tour with Big Bill Tilden.

Vines told the Associated Press he might seriously consider "any offer of such magnitude, but denied it had been made to him and repeated his intention to remain an amateur, at least so far as his present plans go."

"There has been a lot of talk about my turning professional ever since I won the American championship for the first time in 1931," said Vines, "but I am still playing amateur tennis."

Asked whether he intended to continue as an amateur, Vines replied: "Sure, so far as I know."

Vines, Helen Wills Moody and a strong cast of American tennis stars will start competition Monday in the Wimbledon championships, well-rested from a week of keen competition at the Queen's club. Mrs. Moody also is a scheduled finalist today in the London tournament but had no time to decide the issue with Mrs. E. Pittman, English player. There will be no playoffs, because of the prohibition of Sunday competition and the conflict with Wimbledon.

Cliff Sutler, Keith Gledhill and Lester Stoefer all are considered strong contenders in the Wimbledon singles for the title now held by Vines. Other "seeded" favorites are Jack Crawford, Australian champion, and Henri Cochet of France.

Disclosure of somewhat indefinite plans to attract Ellsworth to professional tennis ranks was credited in New York today to a business associate of Tilden, who is now abroad. A sum of $100,000 for the national championship was hinged on the supposition he would retain his U. S. title this September at Forest

SIMMONS LEADS BASEBALL VOTE

Total of 364,291 Ballots Cast for Slugger In All-Star Poll

CHICAGO, June 24.—(P)—Al Simmons is the people's choice as baseball's greatest player.

In the final tabulation of the ballot to select the American and National league teams which will meet in baseball's game of the century at Comiskey park July 6, the Chicago White Sox left fielder led the list with 346,291 votes. The National league's leader is Chuck Klein, Philadelphia's batting star, who piled up 324,283 votes.

The National league squad of 18 players already has been selected by President John A. Heyder and Manager John J. McGraw. The American league team will be announced officially early next week and is expected to follow closely the fans' choices.

Position for position, the American league stars polled higher totals than the National leaguers in seven cases out of eleven, the list including three pitchers for each league.

At first base, Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees, received 312,680 while Bill Terry of the New York Giants, National league choice for the season, got 278,543. Frankie Frisch, St. Louis Cardinal second baseman, outscored his American league rival, Charley Gehringer of Detroit, 276,802 to 239,756.

Pete Traylor of Pittsburgh, received 314,101 votes for third base on the National league club, to 207,902 for Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox, the American league pick. Joe Cronin, Washington's young manager and shortstop, received better than 100,000 votes while Dick Bartell of Philadelphia, who topped the National leaguers for the position, Cronin received 337,766 votes, to 231,639 for the Philadelphia youngster.

Dick Dickey of the Yankees, generally regarded as the best catcher in the major, ran far behind Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs, who polled a huge vote at home. Hartnett's total was 338,633, while Dykes received 297,382.

In addition to Simmons and Klein, among the outfielders, the choices are Babe Ruth, and Earl Averill of Cleveland, Indians, 6 to 2. A four-run rally in the eighth inning by the Athletics told the story, together with misplays by the Indians.

TRANSFER FIRM FULLY RELIABLE

Monroe Concern Uses Modern and Efficient Hauling Methods

There could be no more modern and efficient methods of local and long distance moving than those employed by the Monroe Transfer and Warehouse company, Inc., with headquarters at 219 Walnut street.

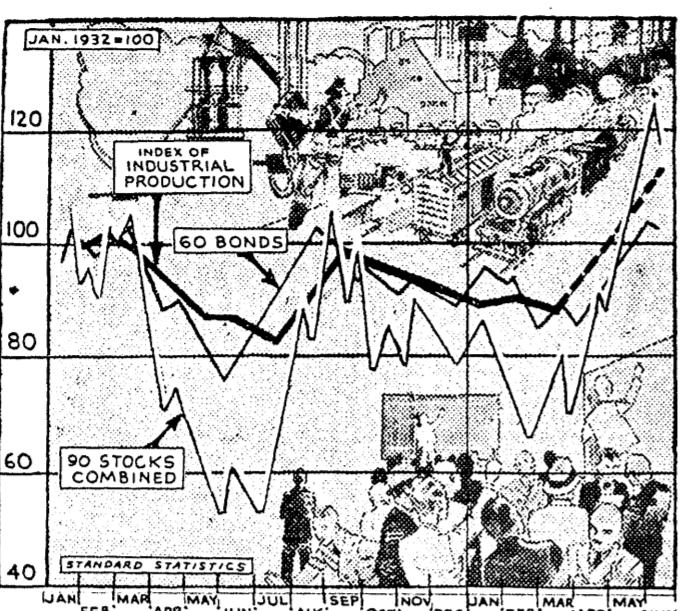

When the customer engages the Monroe Transfer firm to move his furniture, then he is immediately relieved of all details and worries incident to the task.

At the appointed hour, the large Monroe Transfer van, which has the storage and carrying capacity of the furniture in an average size home, backs up to the home. The furniture is taken out of the home and stored into the van, every piece loaded with a system or method to lessen the possibility of damage or weakening of the furniture. The sides of the van are padded and heavy padding is placed between the pieces of furniture. All of this work is done under a foreman who has been detailed to supervise the job.

Pictures, crockery, glassware, electric refrigerators and other like possessions receive special handling, some of them being packed away and made safe from breakage.

If the new home is in a distant city, a special long distance van is used. Whether the new address is

CONTINUING UPWARD CLIMB

This chart above shows the gains made in three principal indicators since January, 1932. The heavy black line (index of industrial production) indicates business activity above any other point in 1933 and also exceeding 1932. The broken line for bonds and the light line for stocks show that these two indices also have exceeded all previous marks of the last 18 months.

here or many miles away, the foreman makes an appointment to meet the customer at the new address.

When this new address is reached at the appointed hour, all of the furniture is unloaded from the van and moved into the house. It is placed in the locations designated by the owner. At this time, the owner has an excellent opportunity to note any damage that might have resulted from the handling of the furniture. Should any claim be made, he can expect immediate settlement as the Monroe Transfer and Warehouse company, Inc., has the reputation of being most reliable in all of its dealings.

WAMSLEY RADIO SERVICE PRAISED

Local Concern Offers Experience and Complete Equipment

Some twenty or more years ago a daily newspaper in New York state printed a front page article under the heading of "A Disciple of Marconi." It was a report of an interview with one of three high school boys who had managed to buy and build the apparatus needed to operate a small wireless station. This small beginning, which was located in a little attic room, was the first of its kind in that city. A short time before the then new means of communication had played an important part in the rescue of the passengers and crew of the ill fated S. S. Republic. For this reason this small wireless station created quite a bit of interest.

Passing along through the years we find that one of these early experimenters, W. D. Wamsley, is now operating a radio repair shop called the Wamsley Radio Hospital, which is located at 125 South Grand street here in Monroe. Mr. Wamsley says that, of course, there have been countless changes in the transition from the old time "wireless" up to the highly developed "radio" of today. In those early days wireless was a hobby but with the advent of broadcasting, Mr. Wamsley now found an opportunity to combine the hobby with his musical training and his extensive experience gained by the exacting demands required in the design, manufacture and servicing of pianos and player piano actions.

From this seemingly unrelated combination was formed the ideal for an organization which was to have the equipment, experience and training to make repairs and adjustments to radios and electrical musical instruments. That ideal demanded that the usual hit or miss method be replaced by the factory method of accurate and efficient workmanship. Added to this there should be an artistry of purpose which should consider the radio as a means of musical entertainment and education. Furthermore, this service should be open to all radio owners and dealers with no strings or obligations to any particular dealer or manufacturer.

Mr. Wamsley states that the organization which he now conducts has been founded upon these exacting requirements. Improvements and additions are constantly being made to keep abreast of the advances in this science.

Radio owners and others interested in any kind of sound installation are invited to visit the Wamsley Radio Hospital at 125 South Grand street with their problems where no job is too small for careful consideration nor can it be too large to be given accurate and expert engineering service. All patronage is appreciated.

Albert Vallery Awarded Order of Purple Heart

Admission to the Order of the Purple Heart, national organization for the dedicating service in the World War, has just been granted to Albert U. Vallery, of 304 Stella street, West Monroe. Mr. Vallery was shellshocked and gassed while serving as private in Battery A, of the 151st Field artillery, on Oct. 25, 1918. He was rendered totally blind for 30 days, but slowly recovered his sight.

He is a member of the L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post. He is now making plans to attend the national convention of the last named organization in Milwaukee this summer.

Catholic, Jewish, Episcopalian, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Methodist and Disciples of Christ clergymen formed a study group in Texarkana in the spring of 1933.

Inspection of Monroe Rail Shops Is Made

The annual inspection of the Monroe shops of the Missouri Pacific railroad was made last Friday, upon the arrival here over that railroad of the so-called "President's Special," which brought a number of officials here from St. Louis. On the train, which comprised five cars, were John Cannon, vice-president and general manager; P. J. Neff, assistant to the president; E. H. McReynolds, director of publicity; R. C. White, assistant general manager; O. A. Garber, chief mechanical engineer; J. A. Miller, maintenance-of-way engineer; W. H. Vance, assistant to Mr. Miller; M. E. England, general freight and passenger agent; J. A. Brooks, assistant vice-president and others.

The train reached Monroe at 2:30 p.m. and remained here for nearly an hour, during the making of inspection. From here the party proceeded to Alexandria and in the early hours of Saturday morning, the train went back to St. Louis.

President L. W. Baldwin was aboard the special train when it made a trip over the company's lines in Kansas and Colorado but was forced to return home immediately thereafter.

DENOIX CONDUCTS PUZZLE CONTEST

Fourth and Stubbs Drug-gist Offers Prizes In Jig-Saw Event

The North Side Pharmacy, at Fourth and Stubbs, has solved the unemployment problem of Monroe. They are putting literally all of our idle citizens to work, days and nights solving jigsaw and cross-word puzzles.

All of this bestiring around came out of a clear sky several days ago when Mitchell Denoux, manager of the North Side Pharmacy, announced a contest in which $1000 in cash prizes would be awarded to jig-saw fans, and the same amount in prizes to crossword enthusiasts.

The contest is a part of a national campaign being conducted by the well-known McKesson and Robbins organization as a plan to increase public interest in stimulating summer business for the retail druggists throughout the country.

Every player is furnished with a jigsaw puzzle containing a jumbled reproduction of McKesson's package labels, of which a part of each has been hidden by the puzzle designer.

The problem is to locate the missing letters, and 56 cash prizes are to be awarded for the most correct lists accompanied by a slogan of not more than six words.

With each jig-saw puzzle there is a cross-word puzzle containing the names of other McKesson products which have been interwoven into a general design. Additional 56 prizes are to be awarded for the most correct solutions accompanied by 100 word letter.

All contestants who wish to make use of the various reference facilities at the North Side Pharmacy are welcome to do so, according to Denoux.

The North Side Pharmacy is announcing this contest, along with other specials which they offer regularly. This convenient drug store, a complete stock, they maintain rapid delivery service and there is plenty of parking space at Fourth and Stubbs, that popular shopping center of the north side.

Mr. Denoux is one of five progressive merchants at Fourth and Stubbs who are engaged in a publicity campaign to popularize this shopping center. Others participating in the campaign are Sur-Wa Store No. 2, Buddy Burford, manager; Spa Service Station, Clyde Hatten, manager; Weil Cleaners, D. B. Weil, owner, and the North Side Bark Shop, owned by J. B. Glass.

Another article concerning the Fourth and Stubbs merchant will appear this page next Sunday.

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—(P)—Cotton market was extremely active today and though there was a deal of week-end liquidation it was promptly absorbed by active buying and short covering and the close was at about the day's best, up to 12 points net and at new high for 1933.

KIWANIS NIGHT TO BE OBSERVED

Local Civic Club to Give
Program and Barbecue
Tomorrow

"All Kiwanis Night," one of the most important annual observances of the Kiwanis clubs of the international organization, will be celebrated by the local Kiwanis club tomorrow night with a barbecue at the Bernstein place on Bayou DeSiard, followed by a program to be given at the auditorium of the junior college.

Wood Thompson, former assistant attorney general of Louisiana, will give the principal address of the occasion, and the program will reach its climax with a "fellowship hour," which will synchronize with a similar program to be observed by all Kiwanis clubs in session at the same time throughout the United States and Canada. A similar "fellowship hour" will be observed at the same time by the international convention, which begins its sessions in Los Angeles Monday night.

The barbecue sponsored by the local club will be served to all Kiwanians and their wives and friends at 8 o'clock. Fred Pettit, one of the noted barbecueurs of Ouachita parish, will be in charge of this feature of the function. At 9 o'clock the gathering will assemble at the college auditorium. In addition to the address of Mr. Thompson, a program of music and dance numbers will be presented. Pupils of Miss Armandine Renaud will give a series of interpretive and tap dances. Lee Stulce will give a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. Georgie Cornett, and Frederick Marx will play a saxophone solo, accompanied by Lowery Jefferson.

The "fellowship hour" will begin at 10:15 o'clock, which corresponds with 8:15 o'clock, the hour at which the international convention will begin at Los Angeles. A message from the international president will be received by radio, and the gathering will sing the national anthem of Canada and the United States.

The program has been prepared by a special committee composed of Kiwanians Albert Marx, Isaac Lemle, C. C. Colvert, and Bernard Biedenharn.

Court of Honor Held
At Boy Scout Camp

Court of honor for the first period of Camp Ki-Ro-Li was conducted last night, when various awards for class advancement and merits were conferred upon a number of Boy Scouts.

Four scouts were successful in passing the life saving tests while nine scouts won swimming merit badges.

Following the court, the boys were served ice cream and cake through the courtesy of former Judge Charles Schulze, who was a guest of honor.

Today is visitors' day at camp and tomorrow the camp will break up, while a new group, estimated at about 60 boys, will pitch camp for the second period.

Campers of the first period are principally from Monroe, West Monroe and Tallulah.

THREE STEAMERS PUT ON OUACHITA

Chaffe, Betsy Ann And Florine Pass Through
City Last Week

Three steamers, the Chaffe, the Florine and Betsy Ann, all owned by the John I. Hay company, Inc., of New Orleans, passed through Monroe the past week on their way to Felsenthal.

The steamer Betsy Ann has been in regular service between Camden and New Orleans for some weeks, but the Chaffe and the Florine have not been in the Ouachita river since last year. Both are to be placed in regular service in the upper Ouachita by the New Orleans company, constituting two new steamers for the line in addition to the Betsy Ann.

The boats are of immaculate whiteness in their coloring with pearl gray and olive green trimmings and will be known in the Camden-Monroe-New Orleans service as the "White Fleet of the Ouachita."

Although the Betsy Ann, one-time "floating palace" for passenger service, plying on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, has 20 well furnished staterooms, it is not to carry passengers nor will the other two boats named be in this service but are to be used exclusively for the transport of commodities, consisting chiefly of cotton, when on down trips, and of sugar on the trips up the river.

In previous years, the cotton shipping season for Arkansas has usually closed in June, but this year the season probably will be extended much later, bringing the present season's close close up to the beginning of the 1933-34 cotton shipping season in September. Extension of the present shipping season is due to the fact that many Arkansas buyers and growers held back cotton the past few months because of low prices. Recent advances, however, has brought much cotton held in reserve and thousands of bales will be shipped on the Ouachita during the next several months.

It is this that caused the addition of the two new boats to the river service.

The Chaffe, the Florine and the Betsy Ann came up the Mississippi, the Red, the Black and the Ouachita rivers as far as Monroe, three abreast, the Betsy Ann towing the Florine on her starboard and the Chaffe on her port, besides pushing two barges heavily-loaded with sugar valued at $32,000. The three-abreast formation was broken at Monroe, when the Florine took in tow the barge of sugar intended for Camden, while the Betsy Ann followed with the other barges intended for Calion, the port of El Dorado. From that city it will be hauled by truck to Magnolia and Texarkana.

The steamer Chaffe will remain permanently in the upper Ouachita for emergency service between the ports of Camden and Calion. The Florine will ply between Monroe and Camden, while the Betsy Ann will continue the round trip service between Camden and New Orleans.

ASKS RECOGNITION OF SOVIET RUSSIA

Senator Norris Declares
Nation Is Ready To Buy
From America

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(P)—In a statement urging Russian recognition, Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, said today he was reliably informed the Soviet wanted to buy from America $10,000,000 of meat products, 1,000,000 bales of cotton and $400,000,000 worth of machinery.

Saying these transactions would give employment to thousands of jobless, Senator Norris asked "what is the objection to this proposed deal?"

"Ever since the war," he continued, "we have been trying to get rid of our agricultural surplus. Russia wants to buy it. We refuse to sell to her. We compel our farmers to struggle along, producing the food we eat and the clothes we wear at a financial loss to themselves."

"How long will we continue to hide our heads in the sand?"

Norris said the United States refuses to have any official relations with Russia because "we do not like her form of government," "disagree with her on religion," and "are shocked at the easy manner in which divorces can be obtained in Russia."

The facts, Norris said, are the Soviet government has never defaulted on the payment of a single obligation while America's former allies, with the exception of one small nation have "either in whole or in part repudiated" their obligations running into billions.

The U.S. government has no official religion," he said. "Neither have we. We do not like the religion of Japan, or even of poor old China, but we still recognize them."

"Divorce are easy and cheap in Russia. In the United States they are easy, but expensive. The only difference is in the expense."

"We do not like Russia's form of government. Neither do we like the governmental activities in Germany, or Italy, or Japan, but we still do business with them, recognize them, and negotiate with them in national affairs."

Later she said a man at the storage house told her he had helped move the cabin.

"All I have gained throughout the years is circumstantial evidence," she said. "All I could do to solve the mystery is ask, 'why was the cabin destroyed?' and 'who wanted it destroyed?'"

Finally she said she had come to believe that the persons responsible, necessarily of powerful influence, were those ashamed of the humble origin of Abraham Lincoln, and eager to prevent the exhibition at the world's fair of the cabin he helped build for his mother.

Mrs. Eleanor Gridley, 87, who supervised the removal, and has written her second book about the cabin, said John Hall, Lincoln's cousin, received $10,000 for it.

In Chicago it was reassembled in the exposition building of the Interstate fair, pending the opening of the Columbian exposition. Finally, it was put in storage for safe keeping when the world's fair was postponed a year, and Mrs. Gridley went to Europe.

When she returned, she related, she was appalled to find the storage room empty, and from Mr. Günther, the storage house proprietor, all she ever learned was:

"Perhaps you may find your cabin in the bottom of the treasure."

"Loss of that of course entrusted to my care," Mrs. Gridley said, "preyed on my mind. I tried to convince myself the cabin had never been brought to Chicago; that I had been dreaming."

TROUSSEAU LINGERIE

The Trend Favors Lace-Trimmed Undies In Satin, Crepe or Chiffon While Negligees Feature the Trim and Tailored Line

OF COURSE, the Bride has been planning her lingerie for months and probably just selecting individual garments here and there when she saw something particularly delectable to attract her attention. But brides and every other fashion-minded woman will have a difficult time resisting this season's array of lingerie.

The fashion world has been hit by the ensemble idea and we find that almost every nightgown has its accompanying jacket. The popular fabric for the new nighties seems to be satin—and they're nearly all lace-trimmed. For actually sleeping, the nightgown seems to have eclipsed the pajama almost entirely. Of course, stunning lounging pajamas are still very much in evidence and quite in demand.

Brassiere and pantie sets, also in combinations of satin or crepe and lace are brief and very, very dainty. For those who still prefer the one-piece chemise, we suggest the new bias cut models that fit without a wrinkle under the new frocks.

Some of the very latest lingerie is sketched on this page today. We wish we had room for more, but the garments shown are representative of the newest creations.

CHARMING NEW NIGHTGOWNS

THE one of tea rose crepe satin sketched above has its matching jacket. The gown boasts the new high square neck, heavily bordered in deep ecru lace, to match the appliqued lace on the front of the gown. It is bias cut and features a slight train, edged with the lace. The brief jacket is lace-trimmed, too, and has elbow-length sleeves that are Shirred in puff effect. The simple and effective negligee of aquamarine chiffon is cut on surplice lines and is caught by a tie at the waistline. Wing-like pieces of chiffon fall from shoulder to hem and are outlined by narrow folds of satin. Over a pajama of pale chartreuse crepe is worn a princess coat of deep purple velvet, caught at the waist with an old gold clasp. There are cape sleeves and the entire coat is bordered with velvet ruching.

THE LINGERIE GROUP

AT THE extreme left, a dainty gown of tea rose satin with a high round neck, has its opening held by a narrow satin bow. The back is slit to the waistline and the gown is heavily encrusted with ecru lace motifs. A lovely brassiere and panties set of peach-colored satin, is lace-trimmed. The brassiere is a narrow uplift model with the lace used as a border at top and bottom. The step-in, almost entirely of lace, is joined to the satin, following the outline of the lace motif. Cut on bias lines, the simple chemise of pale blue flat crepe boasts trimming of lace and drawn work. And here is a secret! To take off a few pounds quickly, we advise the one-piece foundation garment, sketched on the figure in the chair. It combines brocade, lace and perforated elastic. The brassiere, with a low back, is entirely of lace, and there are wide elastic pieces over each hip.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THESE ANIMALS? TO BE EXACT, THERE ARE 8 INTENTIONAL MISTAKES IN THE DRAWING. HOW MANY CAN YOU DISCOVER?

TWO OR MORE PERSONS CAN PLAY THIS MAZE GAME. EACH PLAYER TAKES THE PART OF THE ENGINEER OF THE TRAIN. THE WINNER IS THE PLAYER WHO PICKS UP THE GREATEST AMOUNT OF PASSENGERS UPON REACHING NEW YORK. START FROM THE ENGINE AND TRACE ALONG ON THE ONE LINE TRACK. MOVE IN THE DIRECTIONS OF THE ARROWS. ADD THE NUMBERS YOU PASS AS PASSENGERS PICKED UP.

H	X	F	N	D	U	R	T	N	F	S	C	Z	K	H	A	R	E	P	D	U	Z

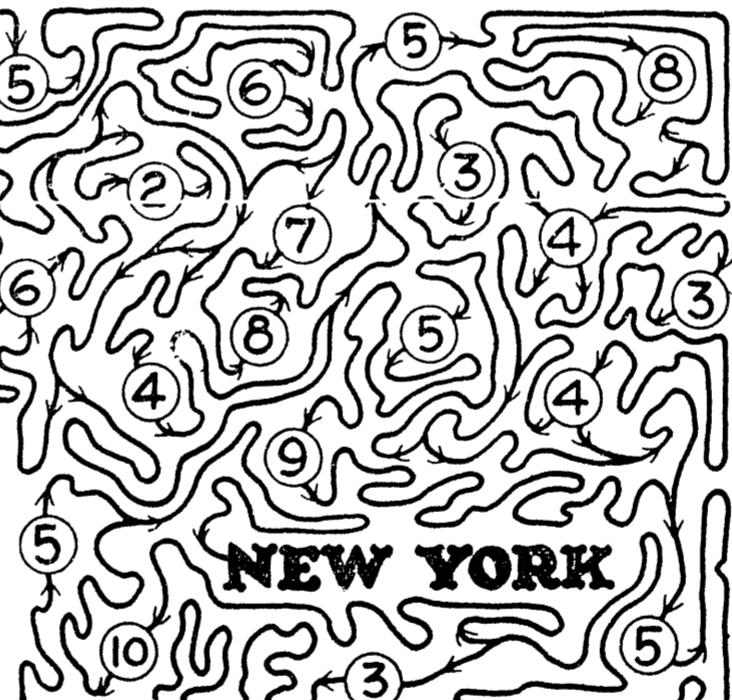

JACK BUNNY IS OFFERING YOU AN INTERESTING PUZZLE. FIRST CUT OUT THE 16 LETTERED SQUARES SHOWN ABOVE. HERE'S YOUR PROBLEM. TRY TO PLACE ONE LETTERED SQUARE IN EACH EMPTY SQUARE AND ARRANGE THEM SO THAT NO TWO LIKE SINGLE LETTERS WILL BE IN ANY ROW ACROSS OR DOWN.

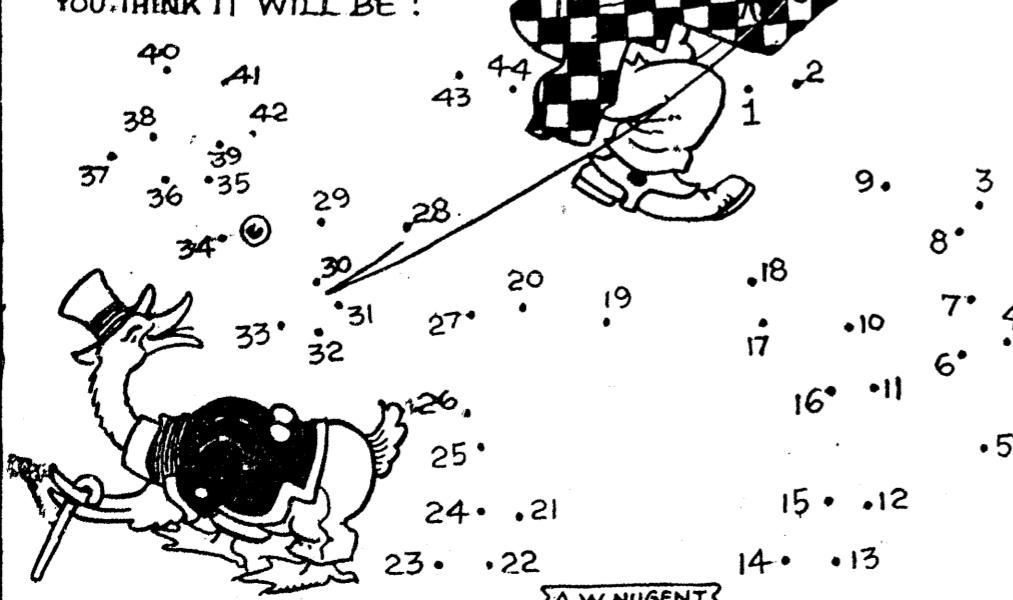

A TOY SQUIRREL THAT WILL STAND ON ITS HIND LEGS AFTER IT HAS BEEN CAREFULLY CUT OUT. DO NOT DETACH THE SIDES, SIMPLY BEND THEM BACKWARD ON THE DOTTED LINES.

HOLD YOUR HANDS IN FRONT OF A LIGHT, IN THE POSITION SHOWN, SO A SHADOW WILL APPEAR ON THE WALL. YOU WILL THEN SEE A LARGE PICTURE OF A WOLF.

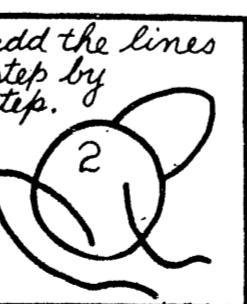

MONKEY DOODLE CAME TO TOWN RIDING ON A _____. WELL, YOU'LL SEE WHAT HE'S RIDING ON! BY JUST SIMPLY CONNECTING ALL THE DOTS IN NUMERICAL ORDER FROM DOT ONE TO DOT FORTY-FOUR. IT'S NOT A PONY. WHAT DO YOU THINK IT WILL BE?
